

Kin Care – Explicitly says that whatever kind of sick leave an employee earns it can be used to care for a family member. May also expand to include accessing preventative care or other needs

Safe Days – Explicitly says that whatever kind of sick leave an employee earns it can be used to deal with the physical, emotional, or legal impacts of domestic violence, sexual assault, or stalking or to seek safety

Why is this important for preventing child maltreatment?

When domestic violence is present, children are at an increased risk of physical child abuse, neglect, and child sexual abuse.

These policies keep our schools and workplaces healthier, keeps people in their jobs, reduces turnover, and boosts business productivity. Employers are not required to offer any new benefit because these policies allow workers to use the paid or unpaid sick time they already have.

Safe Days and Kin Care would improve the lives of working North Carolinians and their families, while supporting survivors and strengthening public health.

When we prevent domestic violence, we prevent child abuse

Safe days would allow a survivor to take earned sick leave to flee an abusive environment, obtain a protective order, seek treatment so the survivor and the child(ren) can heal from the abuse

*These workplace supports are research proven to improve child and family health, well-being, and economic security.

Safe Days and Kin Care give workers the opportunity to use their earned time to:

- Care for family members
- Access preventative care for themselves
- Address problems related to domestic violence, sexual assault, or stalking
- Stay home and recover from a short-term illness
- Attend school meetings related to a child's health condition or disability
- Allow survivors of domestic violence, stalking, or sexual assault (or their close family member) to use paid sick time to recover or seek assistance related to an incident

What Safe days and Kin Care do NOT do:

- DOES NOT require that employers offer sick leave, either paid or unpaid.
- DOES NOT have anything to do with the federal Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA).
- DOES NOT have anything to do with Short-term or Long-Term Disability benefits.

Surrounding States

- The Family Act \(2017\) from Georgia in 2017 and had broad bi-partisan support. This bill allowed employees to use earned and available sick leave to care for immediate family members. There was a sunset provision and based on how well the initial bill was received, it was championed and passed again without a sunset.

Parent perspective

- Hearing from parents: earned sick days can't be used to care for their sick child.
- Child Advocacy Centers: stress of families where parents couldn't come in – for forensic interviews and treatment.
